RESOLVED, That ACEP work with the American Hospital Association, other relevant stakeholders, and law enforcement officials to ensure best practices are established and promoted to protect patients and staff from weapons in the ED.

This resolution calls on ACEP to work with the American Hospital Association, other relevant stakeholders, and law enforcement officials to ensure best practices are established and promoted to protect patients and staff from weapons in the emergency department (ED).

Violence in health care is a common occurrence. An ACEP survey from 2018 showed that nearly half of emergency physicians have experienced violence and 80 percent of emergency physicians said that violence was harming patient care. These trends have not improved, and we still continuously hear stories about attacks or other violent episodes from health care workers across the country. In fact, since the onset of the pandemic, violence against hospital employees has markedly increased — and there is no sign it is receding. Studies indicate that 44 percent of nurses report experiencing physical violence and 68 percent report experiencing verbal abuse during the pandemic.<sup>1</sup>

ACEP has taken an active role in trying to address the problem of violence in the ED. In 2019, ACEP partnered with the Emergency Nurses Association (ENA) to launch an ongoing campaign called “No Silence on ED Violence” to equip and empower our respective members to effect needed safety improvements at their hospitals, while engaging state and federal policymakers, stakeholder organizations and the public at large to generate action to address this crisis. A webpage was created, stopedviolence.org, to serve as a resource and advocacy hub for violence in the ED.

Furthermore, in 2020, ACEP was part of an Action Team sponsored by the National Quality Forum to identify and propose ways to overcome key barriers to appropriately responding to and reporting violent incidents in health care settings and preventing future ones from occurring. The work of the Action Team culminated with the release of an issue brief that included a specific set of priority challenges for policymakers and other stakeholders to address.

ACEP supports the “Workplace Violence Prevention for Health Care and Social Service Workers Act” (H.R. 1195, S.4182) that passed the House of Representatives in April of 2021 and was introduced in the Senate in May of 2022. This bipartisan effort takes critical steps to address ED violence by requiring the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) to issue enforceable standards to ensure health care and social services workplaces implement violence prevention, tracking, and response systems. ACEP also supports the Safety from Violence for Healthcare Employees (SAVE) Act, which was introduced in the House of Representatives in June of 2022. This bipartisan bill would help curb violence in the emergency department and criminalize assault or intimidation against health workers.

One of the main focuses of the 2022 Leadership & Advocacy Conference was protecting emergency physicians from ED violence. Emergency physicians at all career levels met with legislators about ED violence and asked legislators to establish important, common sense procedures to protect emergency physicians, health care workers, and patients from violence in the health care workplace.

ACEP and the American Nurses Association sent a letter to and subsequently met with the National District Attorneys Association in April 2022 to discuss state-level prosecutorial approaches to offenders who assault health care workers, asking that assailants be subject to the same penalties of those who assault airline workers.

In early 2022, The Joint Commission established and started enforcing new workplace violence prevention requirements to guide hospitals in developing strong workplace violence prevention programs. ACEP contributed to the development of these new requirements by participating in an expert workgroup and supplying comments.

ACEP has additional resources and policies specifically addressing violence in the emergency department. The policy statement “Protection from Violence and the Threat of Violence in the Emergency Department” calls workplace violence “a preventable and significant public health problem” and calls for increased safety measures in all emergency departments. It outlines nine measure hospitals should take to ensure the safety and security of the ED environment. Violence in the ED is one of the 13 topic areas that link from the ACEP website, and the link leads to a page with a wealth of resources entitled “Violence in the Emergency Department: Resources for a Safer Workplace.” The site includes links to information papers on the “Risk Assessment and Tools for Identifying Patients at High Risk for Violence and Self-Harm in the ED” and “Emergency Department Violence: An Overview and Compilation of Resources.”

ACEP policy also addresses the issue of gun violence. The policy statement “Firearm Safety and Injury Prevention” calls for “funding, research, and protocols” to address the public health issue of injury and death from firearms. The policy lists six legislative and regulatory actions that ACEP supports, including funding for firearm injury prevention research, protecting physicians’ ability to discuss firearm safety with patients, universal background checks, prohibiting high-risk and prohibited individuals from obtaining firearms, restricting the sale and ownership of weapons and munitions designed for military or law enforcement use, and prohibiting 3-D printing of firearms and their components. The policy statement “Violence-Free Society” also notes that “ACEP believes emergency physicians have a public health responsibility to reduce the prevalence and impact of violence through advocacy, education, legislation, and research initiatives.”

In 2018, the Public Health and Injury Prevention Committee developed the information paper “Resources for Emergency Physicians: Reducing Firearm Violence and Improving Firearm Injury Prevention” that provides information on prevention of firearm injuries, including relevant emergency medicine firearm violence and injury prevention programs, prevention practice recommendations, firearm suicide prevention programs, and listings of community-based firearm violence prevention programs by state.

Strategic Plan Reference:

Career Fulfillment – Members believe that ACEP confronts tough issues head on and feel supported in addressing their career frustrations and in finding avenues for greater career fulfillment.

Advocacy – Members believe that they can rely on ACEP to fight for emergency physicians across all landscapes and levels, including federal, state, and local.

Council Action:

Reference Committee B recommended that Resolution 34(22) be adopted.

The Council adopted Resolution 34(22) on September 30, 2022.

Testimony:

Both asynchronous and live testimony were unanimously in support of the resolution. Asynchronous testimony noted the need for clear guidelines that can be implemented for best practices to decrease the risk of injury from weapons in the emergency department. During live testimony, one member suggested including EMS as a component, as many weapons come to emergency departments through EMS entrance. Some testimony suggested that the resolution not be limited just to weapons, but that it should address violence more broadly. The Reference Committee recognizes the concerns about the EMS aspect and believes that the resolution as it stands is broad enough to encompass EMS. The Reference Committee also notes that ACEP has already made it a priority to address violence in the emergency department, however, there is still a need to establish best practices for protecting patients and staff from weapons specifically.

Board Action:

The Board adopted Resolution 34(22) on October 3, 2022.

ACEP helped inform and supports the "Safety from Violence for Healthcare Employees (SAVE) Act," (H.R. 7961), bipartisan legislation re-introduced into the 118th Congress by Madeleine Dean (D-PA-04) and Larry Buschon MD (R-IN-08) in April, 2023 that would establish federal criminal penalties for violence against health care workers (as this resolution seeks to do), based on federal penalties that already exist for violence against airline and airport employees. This legislation is also supported by the American Hospital Association. ACEP president Gillian Schmitz, MD, FACEP, was quoted in the press release issued previously by the sponsors of the legislation on June 7, 2022.

The "Safety from Violence for Healthcare Employees \(SAVE\) Act" was introduced in the Senate by Senators Marco Rubio (R-FL) and Joe Manchin (D-WV). The legislation establishes federal criminal penalties for individuals who assault health care workers and is modeled after existing protections for airline employees. This bill serves as the Senate companion to the previously-introduced House bill that ACEP advocated for during Hill visits at LAC23 in May. The Senate version is essentially identical in terms of the federal penalties language and who would be covered, but there are two key differences from the House version. The Senate bill strips out the grants for hospitals, and includes a new section requiring a GAO report on the effectiveness of criminal penalties and prosecutions for violence against health care workers. ACEP's letter of support can be found here, and ACEP President Christopher Kang, MD, FACEP, was quoted in the press release.
